The Adult Coloring Club was created in response to requests from our customers. Coloring enthusiasts meet and work on therapeutic coloring. The club meets the first Monday of the month and is open to anyone 18 and up.

Senior crafters made clay pendants in the Pfab Lab this month. The pendants are made from polymer clay and are baked in an oven or toaster oven. Pendant bails are applied with glue and the works are ready to be worn on a chain or ribbon.

Chocolate lovers were treated to a movie and a craft in January. Adult patrons were invited to view the movie Chocolat and make their own chocolate candies.

Teens enjoyed a screening of Miss Peregrine's Home for Peculiar Children and created their own peculiar worlds with the help of the library's green screen and photo software.

Teen boys and girls attend the Girls Who Code class taught by volunteers. Girls Who Code is open to both boys and girls and is held every Wednesday. The class is ongoing and students commit to an entire semester. This program is sponsored by the Friends of the Pflugerville Library.

Kids Crafternoon featured a snowman craft to remind the little ones of what winter looks like! Children ages 5-8 work on a different project every week.
