Approving an update to the Finance and Budget Committee Resolution to change the term from two years to one, removing the Financial Expert requirement, and removing the authorization to hire outside counsel or consultants.

The committee has transitioned over time and has placed a heavier emphasis on municipal finance and budgeting education, in addition to making a recommendation on the annual budget. In an effort to allow as many people as possible to participate on the board, this amendment provides for a one-year term instead of a two-year term, although City Council may choose to reappoint members to serve up to three consecutive terms, if desired. Also, given the educational nature of the board, this amendment also removes the requirement for a member to be a financial expert and the authorization to hire outside counsel or consultants.
